CHURCHWARDENS' ACCOUNTS

OF THE

PARISH OF ST. ANDREW, CANTERBURY,

From A.D. 1485 to A.D. 1625.

INTRODUCTION.

These Accounts of the Churchwardens of the Church of St. Andrew in the city of Canterbury are contained in a folio volume of 215 paper leaves, bound in boards covered with leather, ornamented with an elaborate panelled design of a contemporary pattern embossed upon it, and with the words "Time Deum" occurring continuously around the centre panel; the clasps are of brass and have but slight ornamentation. The volume has been rebacked* at a later period, has four raised bands, is $12\frac{1}{2}$ inches high by 9 inches broad and $2\frac{1}{8}$ inches thick.

The volume consists, as above stated, of 215 paper leaves. Of these the first 190 are original, as are the last three, numbered 213, 214 and 215; they measure $8\frac{1}{2}$ inches by 12 inches, are of good paper with a water-mark consisting of a gauntleted hand in the erect position, from the second finger of which is poised a crown.

The remaining 21 folios are a later addition, being probably bound up in the volume when the book was re-bound the first time. These pages are of good paper with watered edges and shew a water-mark of nine faint perpendicular lines caused by the wires in the making, and in the centre a vase or cup on a raised base with the handle to one side and a highly decorated and arched cover set with knobs or pearls supporting a crescent, and in the centre of the cup are the letters I. B. These pages are slightly smaller in breadth, measuring only $7\frac{3}{4}$ inches.

There is a page inserted at the beginning entitled "The Subject Matter," which, in a nineteenth-century hand, gives a very brief account of the contents, not free from errors; but the most impudent and presumptuous circumstance in connection with the volume is the way in which some ignorant person has scribbled over many of the pages, not only defacing them in a most disgraceful manner, but in the attempt to elucidate the contents has displayed much blind ignorance. All the scribbling appears to be in an eighteenth-century hand and to have been done by one and the same person. On the second fly-leaf is written, probably in the nineteenth century, "Parish of St. Andrew, Canterbury. No. 4."

The writing down to the year 1600 is excellent, and is evidently the work of a succession of good clerks writing a fair and clerkly hand; after that date it degenerates, and in places during the last decade in the volume it is very difficult to decipher some of the words and especially some of the surnames.

There are but few attempts at decoration: some of the earlier years have the titles written in a heavy and larger script, and towards the middle of the volume some of the capitals are ornamented with flourishes, and with such ejaculations as "conserva me domine" and "graz be w^{t} me," etc.

It will now be necessary to give a short account of the church to which the volume belonged, which from the period of its foundation till the year 1763 (when it was taken down and rebuilt on a site near by towards the south) stood at the west end of what was known as "The Middle Row"; this was the centre of that part of the main street now called the Parade, the street here bifurcating into narrow lanes passing along the north and south sides of the church from between the church of St. Mary Bredman and the Chequers' Inn at the west to where the Parade now converges, about twenty-five paces from the top of Through Hall, now Iron Bar Lane, at the east.

The west door of the church was at the crossing between Mercery Lane and St. Margaret's Street. It must have been quite on the road as constant reference is made in the Accounts to the payment for its cleaning. At the west of the crossing were the two shops belonging to the church and frequently mentioned in these same Accounts.

Beyond the church to the east was Archbishop Abbott's conduit, removed in 1754; this stood opposite the opening to Angel, now Butchery, Lane. Opposite to the entrance of Pillory, now Rose, Lane stood the Pillory, and again still further to the east were the "Shambles," hucksters' stalls, etc., cleared away in 1740.

The only view of the mediæval church of St. Andrew that I have been able to discover is that depicted in the plan of the city of Canterbury given in Gostling's Walk, 1st edition, 1774, and repeated in the 2nd edition, 1777. This plan was also used by Hasted in his Hist. of Kent, vol. iv., p. 389*, and was originally published by William and Henry Doidge in 1752, but altered for Gostling's book. It shews a cut of this old church in the middle of the street, as well as a representation of Archbishop Abbott's conduit. The church is drawn as viewed from the west, and exhibits the west door in the Pointed style, ornamented with tracery, within a shallow porch, the entrance of which has a pointed arch and a plain tympanum; within is seen a seat on either side. Above the porch is a gallery built on a level with the sill of the west window of the nave, and on either side an arcade in the west wall of four pointed arches springing from shafts with moulded capitals, resting on a plain string-course, placed within a subarcuated and shallow recess. There is a stringcourse also above the arcade. The west window is shewn as having three lights, the apex being covered by the face of the clock frequently mentioned in these Accounts. On either side of this window are two circular openings—they appear to be blind—and above them is a battlemented parapet built on a stringcourse.

Springing from the west end of the roof, which appears to have been flat, is a dwarf octagonal tower of wood with a balcony, and above rises an octagonal steeple surmounted by a vane. The small door leading from the tower on to the roof can be seen, and several windows on the south side of the church.

The rebuilt Church of St. Andrew is now used as a parish room for parochial meetings, Sunday School, etc., of the united parishes of St. Margaret, St. Andrew and St. Mary Bredman.

We will now turn our attention to the Accounts themselves, and must first note that they cover a period of close upon 140 years, these being some of the most interesting as well as momentous in the history of our country and people. The Accounts open in the first year of the reign of Henry VII., just six weeks after the battle which ended the Wars of the Roses, and close at the end of the reign of James I. There is a break of seven years following the entries of the first year 1485, and unfortunately a break of ten years in the reign of Henry VIII. The last missing accounts are from the Feast of St. Michael the Archangel 1528 to the same Feast in 1538, and it is much to be regretted—especially by the citizens of Canterbury—that these possibly most illuminating local accounts are missing, seeing that this city was much affected by the unscrupulous actions of the King and his servile parliament during this period.

It will be remembered that the chief events during these years were the repudiation by the King of Queen Katherine, the fall of Thomas Wolsey, Cardinal, the rise of his viperish menial servant Thomas Cromwell, the finding of Thomas Cranmer, afterwards made Archbishop of Canterbury as a reward for his subserviency, and the attempted exploitation of Thomas More, the most brilliant scholar and most honourable man of his time, all four of whom received their Christian names in memory of Thomas Becket, "the holy blissful martyr," whose shrine was despoiled and himself by this same King arraigned for treason 360 years after his martyrdom. Then there followed the tragedy of Elizabeth Barton of St. Sepulchre's Priory and of her friends in the city, the suppression of this and the other smaller monasteries, to be followed shortly afterwards by the larger, including the great Benedictine Abbey of St. Austin and the Priory of Christchurch.

The Pilgrimage of Grace occurred in the interval between these two suppressions, and the whole country stood aghast at the doings of their Catholic Sovereign, who had just had "his soul publicly delivered over to the Devil and his dominions to the first invader" by his Holiness the Pope.

The Accounts proper begin on the recto page of folio 7, the earlier folios being used for the setting out of an Inventory of the Books, Vestments, "Catalls and Jewells" belonging to the Parishioners, preceded by short abstracts of certain wills of deceased parishioners relating to obits. It is fairly evident that this is not the first volume of Accounts pertaining to this parish, as will be seen from the indenture* and inventory above mentioned and from the entries in the Accounts themselves, e.g., the sum of 3*s.* 4*d.* received in 1485 for the land in Ivy Lane, which had been in the possession of the parish since about 1463.

On the inside paper lining of the front cover of the volume is set out memoranda of the dates when the various Obits of Benefactors to the Church fell due in the course of the Church's year, the one occurring first being for the soul of Edmund Mynot on the Eve of St. Edmund, K. and M., that is, on the 19th day of November, though his will† was not proved till March 8, 1487-8, over two years after these Accounts begin.

Edmund Mynot was the Common or Town Clerk of the Corporation of Canterbury, and was a man of considerable wealth; he was admitted a freeman in 1467, and was a benefactor to the city, being one of three citizens who

* This indenture and inventory was "made the vith day of October" 1485, when John Wattys and Richard Wellys, late wardens, were succeeded by Edmund Mynot and Robert Bone, the new wardens.

† Abstracts from the wills of certain parishioners mentioned in the following pages will be found in the Appendix. For these and for other interesting notes I am indebted to my friend Mr. Arthur Hussey of Wingham.

rebuilt the Burgate in 1475. It is possible that Simon Mynot, cook, who was a freeman in 1398, was Edmund's grandfather, but we know that his father was Richard Mynot, who died in 1475; he was a supporter of Jack Cade, and was pardoned in 1450; he lived twenty-five years after this rebellion, and when he died was buried before the Altar of St. Mary and St. Nicholas in Bishopsbourne Church, where his wife Joan, who died in 1476, was also buried. Richard appears to have had a younger son William, who left a daughter Anne.

Edmund was Common Clerk of Canterbury in 1474-5; he married Anne White, formerly the wife of Henry Simmons, a vintner, who had been admitted a freeman in 1451. By Henry Simmons Anne had a son John Simmons, a grocer, admitted a freeman by birth in 1480, but who was dead in 1489, and a daughter Thomasine Simmons, who married John Fishe, grocer, a freeman in 1486, who died in 1515. They left one son John Fishe the younger, also a grocer, admitted a freeman in 1515.

Edmund Mynot died in 1487, and by his will, dated 13th October 1487 and proved the following March, he leaves directions that he is to be buried in the nave of the Church of Bishopsbourne near the grave of Joan his mother. He leaves various benefactions to that church and also to St. Andrew's, Canterbury, to [?] Rodell, to the Priory of St. Martin at Dover, and to the daughter Anne of his brother William on her marriage. He appoints feoffees of his lands and tenements in eight parishes in East Kent and Thanet; leaves his wife the tenement in which he lives in St. Andrew's parish for her life, and after her death to be sold and the money used for masses to be sung in St. Andrew's, to the repair of foul ways and lanes in the city of Canterbury, to poor people bedrede and others, to the Lazar Houses in Kent, to the marriages of poor maidens, and to the building of the new steeple at St. Augustine's Monastery. The money produced by the sale of his lands and tenements he directs to be spent in masses at Bishopsbourne, to the reparation of the churches and houses of the Friars Austen and Friars Preachers and Minors, Canterbury; to St. Nicholas at Wade, Stourmouth, and St. Giles, Thanet; to the hospital of Harbledown and of Maynard's Spittle, Canterbury; for masses to be sung in St. John's Church, Canterbury; for ornaments for the churches of Netherhardes, St. Margaret beside Canterbury, Natyndon, Cosmos and Damin in the Blean, and other poor churches.

It appears that Thomas Abell, the "surgeon or leeche" who attended his father, Richard Mynot, "by senestre means and with untruths" caused the yearly obit of one Michael Shalrewey to be discontinued in the church of Barham, so he directs that his lands there shall remain for this to be continued.

After his wife's death the money derived from his messuage, stable, and garden in the parish of St. Andrew, Canterbury, is to remain for ever for the reparation of the "forechurch"* of that church, except that the parson, the parish clerk, and the wardens to have 6*d.*, 4*d.*, and 8*d.* respectively yearly, on condition of a yearly obit being performed; if this is not so kept then his next heirs to have the messuage, etc., and keep the obit. His tenement in the parish of St. George he directs to be sold and the proceeds to be given to his wife's daughter by her first husband, or in certain contingencies part to go in masses for the soul of her son who was now dead. He leaves his wife all his silver plate except one piece, which is to be sold.

His executors are directed to keep his obit for twenty years to the sum of 20*s.* yearly, and are to buy a "tabylle of alabaster" for the high altar of the parish church of Bishopsbourne to depict the Birth of our Lady—first, the meeting of Joachim and St. Anne at the Gyldengate, and so from thenceforth the stories to be made to the Assumption of our Lady. This to be done after the advice of Sir William Haute, knight, and his executors. Truly the munificent testament of a righteous man!

Before turning to consider the next entry, the obit of

* i.e., the nave.

William Benet, we may as well note what may be gathered from the will of the widow of Edmund Mynot. This lady was Anne Whythe, and, as already stated, she had previously been the wife of Henry Simonds, the vintner; this marriage probably took place between 1451 and 1458. Anne makes her will about a year (1488-9) after the loss of her second husband Edmund Mynot; curiously she describes herself as Ann Whythe, now the wife "of Edmund Mynot." Her daughter's husband, John Fishe the elder, is one of her executors, as is Robert Bone, whose obit will be considered later, and one of the witnesses is Didier Barker or Barger, the "Persone" of St. Andrew's mentioned in the Inventory on fols. 3 vo. and 4 ro., where he is described as late parson of St. Andrew's; he died in 1504.

Ann Mynot directs her burial to take place in the churchyard of St. Augustine's Monastery, and makes bequest to the lights of the church of St. Andrew; her plate to her grandson John Fishe the younger and to her son-in-law John Fishe the elder. To Sir Thomas Fuller, one of the Brethren of the Masyn Dew (Maison Dieu) at Dover, a Parys piece of silver to pray for her soul; and to William, the younger brother of Sir Thomas, articles for his bedroom and 6*s.* 8*d.* "to find him to scole." Various articles of domestic use to relatives and friends, amongst which is 12*d.* to Anne, daughter of William Mynot; and "twenty parcels of 46-8^{d}, in the hands of M^{r} Dygon (Abbot of St. Augustine's in 1497) to the makyng of the new Steeple of S^{t} Augustine in consideration that I be rung in at the time of my burying"; and 8 marks (£5 6*s.* 8*d.*) is to be paid to Friar Paret if he is alive and can be found to sing for her soul and others in the church of St. Andrew for one year; and in the same church twenty masses are to be said at her forthfare (i.e., burial), at her month's mind and anniversary, and 4*d.* to be given "to each of the men that bare me to my burying." She died in 1492.

The next obit mentioned is that of William Benet, and was to be performed on the 21st day of November, being the morrow after St. Edmund, K. and M.

William Benet was the son of Robert Benet of Stour Street, who had been bailiff of the city in 1370, 1378, and 1390-5. Both he and his wife Cristine (who died in 1419) were buried in the chancel of St. John in the church of St. Mildred. William Benet was admitted a freeman of the city in 1406 by birth; he was one of the two bailiffs in 1416, 1419, 1421, 1430, 1434, and 1443, and was mayor in 1450, being the second after such officials were appointed by the charter of Henry VI. From the chronicle of John Stone we learn that he died in 1463, but there is no date appended to his will or of its probate.

He married four wives: first, Isabella, who is mentioned in the will of Cristine his mother in 1419; secondly, Alice, who was buried in St. Augustine's; thirdly, Elene; and fourthly, Geraldine, who was living in 1463. In his will he desires to be buried in the church of St. Augustine beside Alice his second wife, and leaves 20*s.* for a pittance to that monastery, a maser with the image of Our Lady engraved on it to the Fraytor, and 20*s.* to "the painting of the Image of Our Lady where the Abbot lyeth."

To Christchurch he leaves 20*s.* for a pittance, 13*s.* 4*d.* towards the building of the Angel Steeple, and a "Bekyr to the Fraytor, and his name to be written upon the same to be had the more in mind." He leaves various sums to St. Andrew's, St. Mildred's, Friars Preachers, Friars Minors, Friars Augustine, St. John's, Northgate, St. Nicholas, Harbledown, Maynors Spetyll, Nuns of Holy Sepulchre, the Hospitals of St. James and St. Laurence, and to the Priory of St. Gregory.

He desires that "A Sauter* (Psalter) that I use in mine hall" and 10 marcs (£6 13*s.* 4*d.*) be given to a good priest to sing in the chapel of St. John in the church of St. Mildred for a year to pray for the souls of his parents, his own, his wives and several of his friends. He directs that within a month of his death priests shall sing dirige with the laudys and 400 masses, and every priest to have 2*d.*

* This appears to have been given to St. Andrew's. See Fol. 3 ro.

He leaves his best piece of silver weighing 52 ozs. to St. Clement's, Sandwich, to make a chalice weighing 52 ozs. and his name to be graven at the foot of the chalice, as it was graved upon the one that he gave to St. Andrew's.

His wife Geraldine is to have his crofts with two tenements in St. John's Lane; and after the death of his wife, the place where he lives to be sold with the two shops and the money to be used in masses to be said at St. Andrew's for his soul, his four wives, and others, and also £20 to buy a vestment of cloth of gold there, and 3*s.* 4*d.* to sustain and keep the clock there for evermore.

Several suits of vestments given by William Benet will be found in the Inventory, Fol. 3 vo. As the wardens of St. Andrew's have no goods in hand as other churches have, he leaves 5 marcs (66*s.* 8*d.*) to be put to "enquese" (lend out) for the welfare of the said church. Also he directs that 300 feet of Ashlar stone (Folkestone) be bought to make a wharf at the King's Mill at Kingsbridge; and £10 to repair the Shambles east of the Pillory, and to pave the street from St. Andrew's to the Pillory "that the people may go clean."

Money is left to buy linen cloth for shirts and smocks for poor people of God, principally for the Hospitals of Harbledown, Northgate, Mayners Spital, and the prisoners of Westgate and the Castle.

After the death of his wife Geraldine he appoints 21 men, mostly of well-known families of repute in the city, to be trustees of his tenements in the parish of St. Mary Bredman, beside Jewry Lane (two stone houses, the "Tigre" and the "White Horse"—Somner), to the city for evermore, except 10*s.* to be paid yearly to the parson of St. Andrew and the wardens for his year's mind. This* 10*s.* is the money received from the Chamberlain of Canterbury for the obit on the morrow of St. Edmund's day. These houses still belonged to the city in Somner's time.

* The Rent charge payable from the City for Benet's obit in St. Andrew's Church was, in the year 1547, demanded by and paid to the King's Receiver. The Chamberlain's Accounts of the City of Canterbury.

He established a lamp to burn day and night before the High Cross in the church of St. Andrew and also a quit-rent of 6*s.* 8*d.* from a garden in the parish of St. Mary's, Sandwich, and 3*s.* 4*d.* from another garden in Chantry Lane in St. Paul's parish. Both these rents can be traced for many years through the Accounts, that from Chantry Lane garden down to 1623.

His chief place in Stour Street, where his father dwelt, and the garden there was to go to Richard Wells and Joan his wife. A priest was to sing masses for him and his wives, his parents and certain other people in the church of St. Mildred, and in the Hospital at Northgate; and to the fraternity of St. Thomas's chapel he gave 20*s.*

This chapel, or rather the ruin of it, was standing in 1640; Somner describes it as lying in the Canon's orchard or garden to the south of the Priory of St. Gregory, and then used as a barn. It was dedicated to St. Thomas of Canterbury, and described in the will of William Harry of St. Martin's in 1461 as the chapel of the Brotherhood of St. Thomas the Martyr, situate in the garden of St. Gregory's.

The next entry refers to the obit of Mesteres Swann, and was to be kept on the 11th day of February. This lady was the daughter of John Bulling, a freeman of Canterbury and chandler. She appears to have married, first, Thomas Levyns, a mercer (who obtained the freedom of the city by this marriage in 1464), by whom there was a son, William Levyns, gent., who was a freeman by birth in 1486. After the death of Thomas Levyns, Joan married, secondly, John Fremingham, a butcher and a freeman in 1442. He was mayor in 1461-2, and again in 1467-8; he also represented the city in Parliament in 1461. He was one of the three benefactors of the city who rebuilt the Burgate in 1475, and died in 1475. He lived in St. Andrew's parish and was buried in Christchurch Cathedral next those of his wives who had predeceased him. His widow Joan soon after remarried, thirdly, with John Shute, some time before 1481. He was yeoman of the crown, and was given the freedom of the city in 1482 "because he gave a Buck, and in wine to the value of 6*s.* 8*d." After his death Joan married, fourthly, John Swann, senior, yeoman of Canterbury. He was formerly of "Westgatestreete by Canterbury in the Hundred of Westgate," who having made fine and ransom to the king of all offences committed by him before July 7th last, received a general pardon on 3rd November 1471. (Cal. of Patent Rolls, 11 Edward IV., vol. 1467—77). He was mayor of the city in 1491-2, and died in 1498, leaving a son John Swann, junior, by a former wife. His will, made 12th Sept. 1498 and proved 31st December in the same year, will be found in the Appendix.

Joan, who appears to have had only one husband less than Chaucer's celebrated Wife of Bath, was munificent in her bequests. She made her will the 4th Feb. 1504-5, and probate† was granted at Lambeth the 20th June following. She desires to be buried in the church of the monastery of St. Augustine near the grave of John Swann, her last husband. (He was buried in the nave before the Image of the Holy Cross). She leaves bequests to the rector of the church of St. Andrew and to the light of Holy Cross there, and £5 for mass, alms, etc., to poor householders and prisoners within the liberty of the city on the day of her burial, and £10 on the day of her anniversary. She leaves 5 marcs (66*s.* 8*d.*) to the repair of the church of St. Augustine and for her burial there, and the same sum for the glazing of one window in the said church. Small bequests to Maynard's Hospital, St. John's at Northgate, and to Harbledown; the Leper Hospitals at Sandwich, Ospringe, Chesterwood, and at Whiteditch near Rochester.

To John, the son of William Levyne, when 21 years of age, she leaves the three tenements in St. Andrew's parish in Burgate ward, and four tenements in the parish of St. Mary Magdalene, and all her lands and tenements at Wat'ham in the parish of Wickham Breux, and the said

* He was a grocer and received the freedom of the city in 1497 at the instance of John Swann, Alderman (his father), and with the consent of Thomas Compton and William Levyne.

† The abstract of this will was kindly made by A. H. Taylor, Esq., 6 Clement's Road, East Ham.

John and his heirs are to find a yearly obit for 20 years after he comes into the property, to be done yearly for her soul, her parents and husbands, etc., to the value of 40*s*. by the year, to be done by the Observant (Grey) Friars.

To Christopher Levyne* she leaves her lands and tenements in the parishes of Herne and Reculver, and his heirs are to find a yearly obit for 20 years, after he comes into possession, yearly to be done by the Friars Preachers (Black Friars) for the same souls.

To Thomas Levyne, when he arrives at the age of 21 years, she leaves her lands and tenements at Highfield, and he and his heirs are to find a yearly obit for 20 years in the Friars Austens (Whitefriars) for the same souls. If any of the above should die, then the properties to be sold and the money to be used to find a priest to sing for her soul in St. Andrew's Church for six years, and £20 to the repair of bad roads about Canterbury. Then follows a long list of conditional bequests if any of the legatees should die: repairs of the churches of Chislet, Westbere, Sturrey, Herne, Reculver, St. Paul and St. Mary Magdalene Canterbury, and Wickhambreux; repair of the Burgate, bad roads, etc.

Lastly, that the issues and profits from a piece of land at the Crabere (or Crabece) in the ward of Redyngate in Milfield above the yearly charge thereof be bestowed yearly for an obit to be done in the Church of St. Andrew in Canterbury by the wardens there for the time being, to be kept on the anniversary of the day of her burying, or else on the day following. The parson of the church, or his deputy, with another priest, and the parish clerk, with another clerk, are to sing dirige by note on the even, and two masses on the morrow by note, whereof the last mass was to be a requiem; and five other masses were to be said without note. The parson, or his deputy, was to have for his labour and bederoll yearly, 8*d*., and the other priest singing mass and dirige, 4*d.*; the parish clerk was to have for his labour, 6*d.*, and the other clerk for singing dirige and masses, 4*d.*; the five other priests singing mass, 2*d.* each; for the offering 7*d.*, for wax 8*d.*, and to be spent in drinking after the dirige, in bread 12*d.*, in ale 7*d.*, and in wine 4*d.*; to each of the wardens for seeing that the obit was properly performed, 8*d.*; to the prisoners of the castle in alms and bread, 2*d.*; and to those in Westgate in alms and bread, 3*d.*; and any residue was to go to the keeping in repair of the clock of St. Andrew's, or spent on the church as the wardens might consider most necessary. The wardens were to make a true declaration yearly before the parson of the church, or his deputy, and other persons of the parish as to the disposing of this bequest, and if the wardens were remiss or negligent in not carrying out the obit for six days after the day it was appointed to be done by the executors, then her next of kin was to enter the said piece of land and retake possession.

The next and last obit on the list refers to that of Robert Bone. He was the benefactor to the church who gave the property in Pillory (now Rose) Lane, the rent of which is entered in these Accounts right down to the year 1625, when this MS. comes to a close.

Robert Bone was a barber and a freeman in 1472. It is probable that he was either a son of William Bone, a card-maker and freeman in 1427, or of Thomas Bone, a mercer who was admitted a freeman in 1423. Robert made his will on the 21st of May 1506, and died within a few weeks afterwards. He desired to be buried in the churchyard of the monastery of St. Augustine's. He bequeathed to his son John when he came of age £10, two masers, a silver piece of plate, a silver salt, and a dozen silver spoons; a feather bed, a traunser and sheets and blankets. To his daughter Agnes on her marriage £10, a maser, six silver spoons, feather bed, traunser, sheets and blankets, and a green coverlet. Half a garnish of pewter vessels, six candlesticks and four brass vessels for domestic use. He leaves 6*s.* 8*d.* to Joan Allen, his wife's daughter by a former marriage, and the same to Robert Redhode and to William Redhode. He desires a dirige and thirty masses at his burying, and the same at his month's mind and year's mind. The residue of his goods to his wife Agnes and to John Fisshe, his executors. His lands and tenements in the parishes of St. Margaret, St. Mildred, St. Andrew, St. George, and St. Mary Magdalene in the city of Canterbury, and those in Wickhambreux, Preston next Wingham, and Elmyston to his wife for life, except three messuages in the parish of St. Andrew's in Pillory Lane, and after her death to his son John and his heirs for ever with contingencies, except the three messuages, the yearly profit of which is to be given to St. Andrew's for the reparation of the body of that church, on condition that the churchwardens there keep a yearly obit in the church for ever for his soul and for all christian souls in the time of Lent, a dirige and four masses, every priest to have 4*d.*, and each warden 4*d.*, to see the obit kept. The wardens to make a new feoffment by the advice of six or eight of the best and most discreet persons of the same church of the three messuages as often as may be necessary.

These obit lands are mentioned in the Report of the Survey of the Commissioners taken in the second year of King Edward VI., but apparently, because the income was devoted to the fabric of the church, the property in Pillory Lane was not confiscated when the obit was done away with.

An examination of folios 3 to 6 of this MS. will shew how extremely rich this church was in plate, vestments for the clergy and for the altars, and in books, the aggregate value of which must have represented a large sum of money, all of which by the act of the Council of London in 1127 was placed in the care of the churchwardens—an office, as will be discovered by a perusal of these pages, which was no sinecure either before, or for many years after, the Reformation.

A complete list of the names of the churchwardens, many of the clergy in charge of the parish, as well as those of the principal inhabitants resident in the parish during the years covered by the MS., will also be found.

For purposes of comparison, a reference to the Introduction to the Churchwardens' Accounts of St. Dunstan's, Canterbury, by the late J. M. Cowper in Archæologia Cantiana, Vol. XVII., p. 140, is recommended; and for detailed articles on Mediæval Church Ornaments and usages in connection with daily worship in the Church in England the pages of Dr. J. C. Cox's Churchwardens' Accounts should be consulted. To gain some idea of the prominent position and importance given to "Lights" in pre-Reformation times and in explanation of much which has reference thereto in this MS., the abstracts from the wills of many parishioners of St. Andrew's given in Testamenta Cantiana, East Kent, p. 44, should be read, and it will be noted that there were altars dedicated to the Holy Trinity, St. Ninian, and St. Tronyon, in addition to the high altar, and fifteen images about the church besides the rood, where it was customary to burn candles. Inside the cover of this MS. at the end is a very rough sketch, apparently of some object of ecclesiastical furniture, which cannot be identified. As, however, the drawing is contemporary, and may depict some one of the items mentioned in these Accounts or in the wills of the period (Testamenta Cantiana, p. 44), a reproduction of it is given. Sir William St. John Hope and Mr. Aymer Vallance agree that it cannot represent a screen, since the openings have no wainscot, but are continued down to the ground; and they conjecture that it may possibly be the temporary structure of an Easter Sepulchre.

The Accounts open in the first year of King Henry VII. The churchwardens for the year were Edmund Mynot and Robert Bone, and the year is from Michaelmas to the Michaelmas following, one whole year, and as will be seen the official year was not always begun at Michaelmas, but was dated from various festivals at different times, though generally the accounts were made up for one whole year.

The items forming the Accounts are usually set out in order, first the receipts from various sources, and then follow the disbursements. In the year first dealt with (1485-6) the receipts consisted of sums received from the waste of mortuary tapers (i.e., the estimated price of the candles used at the offices of the burial of the dead), rents from the garden ground belonging to the parish in Ivy Lane in St. Paul's parish, from the tenements in the parish of the "Blessed Mary of Northgate," and from the garden in Sandwich. Then there were the alms of the parishioners, Easter offerings, Hocktide money (i.e., money gathered by authorized persons, both men and women, during the Monday and Tuesday after Low Sunday), special donations (as for the repair of the church clock), and, as they fell in, certain legacies from pious persons. The total receipts this year amounted to £4 4*s.* 8½*d.*

The disbursements consisted of payments for the strekyng (i.e., the making of the candles, or their re-making, by adding additional wax when they had burnt low) of the various lights and mortuary tapers, including the Pascal and the font tapers; to the carpenter for making a chest to keep the vestments and books in; for mending surplices and vestments, and for making new surplices; for the washing of the surplices, albes, and the rest of the church linen; for keeping the church clock; for binding the book which these Accounts are written up in; and the sum of 10*d.* was expended for the lock, keys, hinges and staples for the before-mentioned church chest. A fee of 3*d.* was paid to the "Register" at the visitation held in St. George's Church, and several sums occur, as a new rope for the clock and for iron work for the clock. A "redskynne" and a "bukskynne" are bought for binding one of the church books, and the second and third mass books also had to be mended and bound. A certain "Maister Hickson" was employed to write out the service of the visitation of St. Elizabeth, and John Kemsyn, who bound the above-mentioned mass books, was paid for binding it up in the second mass book; Maister Hickson was also paid for writing out the whole of the "Sequences" which were bound in the third mass book. Then, lastly, there was a payment for lamp oil, making the total disbursements amount to £5 0*s.* 8¾*d.*, shewing a deficit of 16*s.* 0¼*d.*

At the end of this first Account is set out the sums expended on a suit in the spiritual court against the widow ffenkill for the recovery of certain chantry fees as follows: 13*d.* on sundry accounts was paid to the summoner to cite her to the ecclesiastical court in the parish church of St. Andrew aforesaid; 5*s.* on sundry accounts was paid to the proctor "Maister John"; 16*d.* was paid for expenditure for various sums expended; 2*s.* 8*d.* was paid for making a presentation presented before the Prior of Christ Church, Canterbury, the see being vacant, and for other expenses; 4*d.* was paid to William à Daue, the summoner of the said Prior, to summon the aforesaid widow to appear before the aforesaid Prior to answer concerning the said presentation—a total of 10*s.* 4*d.* Then there was expended in common law in the matter of the aforesaid widow for the recovery of the aforesaid chantry fees: first, given to John ffyneux,* sergeant-at-law, and to John Nethersole for his opinion in common law, upon the premisses on behalf of the aforesaid, namely, to each of them 40*d.*, total 6*s.* 8*d.*; and finally 2*s.* was paid for expenses for attending on Thomas att Wode, esquire, the next heir of William Stockbery, and for other and sundry expenses, total 8*s.* 8*d.*, making a grand total for the whole account of £5 19*s.* 9¾*d.*, which compared with the entry on fol. 8 vo. shews that the mediæval scribe made an error in his casting up of 1*d.*

Thereafter follow the names of the auditors, as having audited the aforesaid Accounts made on the Feast of St. Edward, King and Confessor (Oct. 13th), in the second year of the reign of the aforesaid King (Henry VII.).

The names of the auditors are on the verso of fol. 8. On the recto of fol. 9 begin the Accounts for the ninth year of Henry VII. (1493). It is therefore probable that the intervening Accounts were kept, but were lost or destroyed when the volume was finally re-bound.

* John Fineux later in this reign (Henry VII.) was knighted and became Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas. He was a considerable benefactor to the House of Austin Friars in Canterbury, known as the White Friars, and situated in St. George's Street.

These Accounts are, as the years pass by, more than interesting. They are full of the religious life of the parish, and will well repay the closest study, not only because they shew the development of the church system at its height at the close of the fifteenth and beginning of the sixteenth century, but because the pages teem with information which cannot fail to be of the utmost value both to the religious and domestic historian as to the genealogist, all the changes made in the church services being shewn by the alterations made in the ornaments and fittings of the church; and occasionally a long list of the parishioners is given, as in 1505 when a "cess" was made for pewing the church, when the names of fifty-five heads of families are given as attending the church.

A matter of interest in post-Reformation times is the fact that the great-grandfather and the great-great-grandfather of the celebrated Dean of St. Patrick's were successive rectors of this church, where the monuments to their memory may still be seen. The signature of the former, William Swift, will be found in the facsimile of fol. 187 vo., under date 1597, opposite page 4. Dean Swift, possibly because he was born and bred in Ireland, knew so little of his family that he in his sketch of his own life styles him a "Prebendary of Canterbury."

The Rev. Thos. Swift (great-great-grandfather of the Dean) was collated to St. Andrew's in 1569 (11 Eliz.), where he continued for the space of 22 years, and was buried when he died, at the age of 57 years, in 1592 in that church. His wife Margaret was buried in the Cathedral churchyard near the south door, together with nine of her children.

His son William (who was also Rector of Harbledown for 22 years) was Rector of St. Andrew's from 1592 to 1624. He died at the age of 58 years. His wife was Mary Philpott. They were married at Kingston near Canterbury on 5 October 1592. She died 5 March 1626, aged 58 years, and was buried in St. Andrew's Church in the grave of her husband. Their son, the Rev. Thomas Swift, was Vicar of Goodriche and Bridstowe, Herefordshire; he was married to Elizabeth Dryden, and they had ten sons and four daughters. Thomas Swift died in 1658, aged 63. One of his sons, Jonathan Swift, who married Abigail Erick of Leicester, was of the King's Inns, Dublin; and his son Jonathan, born 1667 and died 1745, was Dean of St. Patrick's.

As these Accounts cover so long a period, it has been thought well to divide them into parts. The First Part, therefore, covers the years 1485 to 1509, and includes the period under the reign of Henry VII. An Appendix will be found at the end giving abstracts of wills of certain of the parishioners, and also some notes and abstracts from the presentments at the Visitation of the Archdeacon of Canterbury referring to the parish of St. Andrew. These have been kindly supplied by Mr. Arthur Hussey of Wingham.

My grateful thanks are due to the Rev. W. Grylls Watson, Rector of the combined parishes of St. Andrew, St. Margaret and St. Mary Bredman, for kindly allowing me facilities for transcribing the MS.; and to the Rev. C. E. Woodruff, Hon. Librarian of Christ Church, Canterbury, for constant and continuous help in overcoming the difficulties attendant on the transcription of this work, and for much other assistance.

* The scribble of a clerk of the time of James I. or Elizabeth with reference to the inscription on Fair Rosamond's tomb in the Chapter House of the Nunnery of Godstowe :—"Hic jacet in tumulo Rosa Munda non Rosa Mundi : non redolet sed olet quæ redolere solet."—Camden's Remains, p. 399.

Rosamond is stated to have been buried at first in the choir before the high altar, but St. Hugh on visiting the Nunnery in 1191 gave orders that the body was to be taken up and buried outside the church. It would appear, however, that she was reburied in the Chapter House, where her remains were allowed to remain till the Reformation, about which time, according to Leland, "Rosamond's tombe at Godstowe Nunnery was taken up alate."
